Chanute is the Center of Google Earth on

Apple products thanks to the Google programmer being a Chanute native. In addition, Chanute is known throughout the state as “the Hub of Southeast Kansas.” The first and most obvious reason for this nickname is that when one looks at a map of the 15 counties within the Southeast Kansas region, Chanute is exactly in the middle. However, Chanute also deserves its title because of its central location between surrounding major cities. Kansas City, Tulsa, Wichita, Joplin and Topeka - all are just two short hours by car from Chanute, making the city a convenient stopping place for those travelling through the region. This feature also makes Chanute a great place to live. One can enjoy the safety and ease of small-town living while being just a short distance from the services of major cities. Of course, Chanute itself has a wonderful selection of restaurants, shopping and services, confirming its title as the...

Hub of Southeast Kansas.
